A workshop on 'WHO Classification of Central Nervous System (CNS) Tumors: Recent Updates' was held by the Department of Pathology and Lab Medicine, All India Institute of Medical Sciences, Bibinagar, on its campus on Saturday in hybrid mode (online and offline). It was inaugurated by institute's Executive Director Prof Vikas Bhatia, and Prof Dr Neeraj Agarwal, medical superintendent.

"WHO has recently classified various tumors of CNS based on molecular techniques resulting in better patient care. It is, therefore, important for pathologists to remain updated with the new classification," said a press release.

Five speakers from premiere institutes including NIMHANS, Bangalore, Nizam's Institute of Medical Sciences (NIMS), Hyderabad, gave talks on various aspects of recent updates in CNS Tumors.
